

Microlife. A partner for people. For life.

Microlife is a world leader in development and manufacturing of medical diagnostic equipment for home monitoring and institutional use. Having the headquarter in Taiwan, Microlife is looking for our European office a

Junior Engineer, Biomedical

Your key responsibilities will be:

- Machining posted equipment from local market. (technical test and repair)
- Inspection of samples before delivery to customers/distributors.
- Assistance with the international guarantee handling.
- Phone/internet customer support (including hospitals, doctors, service entities) in device SW issues (installation & trouble shooting).
- Feedback/support to R&D for SW improvement/debugging.
- Support beta tests for SW updates before release, technical documentation, trouble shooting guides, user manuals, etc.

Your profile request:

- Good team and technical skills.
- Electrical engineering background.
- Fluent in English and German communication.
- Communication and presentation skills.

Microlife offers you a highly flexible and challenging work environment, exposure to international colleagues and clients in local working environment in middle of the St. Galler Rheintal. If you're interested in taking on this challenge, so please send your CV in English and your cover letter in German to:

microlife®

Microlife AG . Espenstrasse 139 . CH-9443 Widnau
Tel. +41 71 727 70 23 . Fax +41 71 727 70 39
jobs@microlife.ch . www.microlife.com